Reward system

Car dealers unite to combat problem

By MAX ERKILETIAN Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Faced with mounting losses through thefts and vandalism, Sedalia's car dealers are joining forces to combat the problem.

The dealers will announce this week a system of paying rewards for information on vandalism and theft cases. Information leading to convictions will get top consideration, but the dealers also indicated they will pay for other information that is considered worthy of a reward.

A committee of car dealers will determine who is to receive a reward. Law enforcement officers will not be eligible.

The idea of a reward system grew out of a recent meeting between car dealers and the chief of police, sheriff and prosecuting attorney. At first the idea was to state a specific monetary reward, but this was changed to leave

We decided that some information was worth more than other information," said Jack Robinson of Bryant Motor Co. following a meeting of car

Losses to thefts and vandals have averaged between $75 and $200 per month so far this year for each of Sedalia's new car dealers, it was reported. One dealer has hired a guard. Others are considering doing the same. At least one dealer admits his insurance company is pressuring him to erect a fence. But no matter what the dealers do to combat the rise in vandalism and thefts, one thing is certain. You will pay the price.

The only way dealers can absorb the losses inficted by vandals and thieves is through higher prices for the consumer.

Consumers to pay

"Oh, I'm sure," one salesman responded when asked if consumers will suffer as a result of the damages to dealer stock." When our costs go up the consumers always pay for it.

He told The Democrat-Capital price increases will "not be reflected in the price, but a lower trade-in value.

Within the past three weeks, thieves have broken car windows and taken tape players, car radios and speakers at one dealership resulting in more

In another recent incident, vandals caused $1,050 damage to cars on one new car lot by scraping them with a sharp object.

Dealers are fed up and they have taken, and demanded, action.

Police Chief William Miller told The Democrat-Capital he has ordered stepped-up surveillance of car lots. However, he points out that manpower is limited, "and unfortunately, we can't watch the car dealerships all the

"Some of the guys have been hit pretty hard," Pat O'Connor local Chevrolet, Buick and GMC dealer said.

Bill Shumake of Town and Country Motors declared: "We're really going to get tough." Pointing to the reward, he said, "We're together on this now and we've taken the steps to make a legal fund.

Bill Greer, Ford dealer, said the idea of the fund is to get some of the people involved in thefts and vandalism to turn against others involved. He noted the difficulty of catching someone in the act of vandalizing or stealing from a car on a dealers lot.

Miller agrees.

Thieves quick

"With the nature of the business, it is very hard to catch them," said Miller." Customers are always circling around there (car lots)

Most thefts are ones that take little time to execute, according to dealers. They also note that vandals can strike quickly, sometimes while appearing to be shopping. While aware of the problems involved, the dealers are taking steps to protect against future losses.

We've arranged our lot so the police officers can drive their cars through and observe easier," Gary Dey, sales manager at Malmo Motors, said. Many other dealers are following suit. Most dealers are also keeping their lights on later or all night.

One dealership has employed a nightwatchman. Others are considering such a move.

Some dealers in metropolitan areas have erected fences around their lots. However, the Sedalia dealers are resisting that trend for the present.

Asked about installing a fence, Eddie Bryant, Volkswagen Sedalia Inc. said, "It looks like it's a possibility, yes. My insurance company is pressuring me to put up a chain-link fence

Hawkins stands by decision to dismiss Rose

By OWEN HARDY Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Mayor Allen Hawkins stood by his decision at Monday night's City Council meeting to replace Auxiliary Police Chief Fred Rose.

Ward Democrat Russell Bellamy told the council he had talked with various administrators and board members of the Sedalia school district. He said they were all "very much disappointed that he (Rose) didn't receive his commission."

In a stormy session two weeks ago, Hawkins refused to recommission Rose, who had been on the force for almost 30 years, because Rose lives just outside the city limits. Although some council members protested that the city's residency requirements did not pertain

Rose, who did not appear at the council meeting two weeks ago, was present at Monday night's meeting, along with five or six auxiliary policemen. Rose said he "just wanted to see what happened," but had no plans as yet for any action concerning his lost commission.

Neither Rose nor the auxiliary policemen made statements during the public portion of the meeting.

The school officials Bellamy said he had talked to are Glen (Mack) Kell, school board president; Dr. Earl Finley, assistant superintendent of schools; Kem Keithly, superintendent of schools; Morris Byrum, principal of Smith-Cotton High School; and Larry Smithson, principal of the Sedalia Junior High School.

In other business, Assistant Fire Chief Kenneth Sublett was named training officer and fire prevention chief of the Sedalia fire department.

fire department for 1912 years, will serve in his new post on a six months "trial basis," an arrangement which he said he suggested himself. During or at the end of the period. Sublett may take back his old job if not satisfied with his new one.

Sublett has been assistant chief for the past 13 months. He will be replacing Chester Anderson who resigned from the combination training officer-fire prevention chief job July 19. Fire Chief Willis Jabas said Sublett will be taking fire fighting and training courses in order to receive state certification as a training

Sublett will receive no pay increase, he said. The job entails training fire depart-

The council approved the acquisition of two land tracts adjacent to the city barn, one 120 by 90 feet square and the other 120 by 200 feet square. The larger tract was sold to the city by Anthony G. Brown and his wife, Jane, for $60,000 payable over a 10-year period in $6,000 yearly installments interest-free. The smaller tract was given to the city by Virgil W. Herrick, 1525 South Barrett.

CHICAGO (AP) - Jimmy Carter says some of the strict standards of his Baptist faith are almost impossible to maintain, adding: "I've committed adultery in my heart many times.

But, Carter continued, 'This is something that God recognizes I will do - and I have done it — and God forgives me for it."

Carter's comments came during the course of a long and frank discussion of his religious beliefs with Playboy magazine interviewer Robert

The interview, scheduled to be published Oct. 14, was made available to The Associated Press and to NBC News on Monday

A Playboy spokesman said taped interviews with Carter were conducted over a three-month period, with a lengthy interview at Carter's home in Plains, Ga., after he won the Democratic presidential nomination.

During the final session in Plains, Carter was asked if he thought the interview would reassure "people who are uneasy about your religious beliefs, who wonder if you're going to make a rigid, unbending president. Carter responded with a discussion of his Baptist faith. It covers about two columns in the interview which runs 81/2 magazine pages.

"What Christ taught about most was pride, that one person should never think he was any better than anybody else," he said.

"I try not to commit a deliberate sin. I recognize that I'm going to do it anyhow because I'm human and I'm tempted," Carter said.

'And Christ set some almost impossible standards for us. Christ said, 'I tell you that anyone who looks on a woman with lust has in his heart already committed

"I've looked on a lot of women with lust. I've committed adultery in my heart many times. This is something that God recognizes I will do - and I have done it - and God forgives me for it. But that doesn't mean that I condemn someone who not only looks on a woman with lust, but who leaves his wife and shacks up with somebody out of wedlock," he said.

"Christ says don't consider yourself better than someone else because one guy screws a whole bunch of women while the other guy is loyal to his wife. The guy who's loyal to

The thing that's drummed into us all the time is not to be proud, not to be better than anyone else, not to look down on people, but to make ourselves acceptable in God's eyes through our own actions and recognize the simple truth that we're saved by grace," he said. "This gives us a mechanism by which we can relate permanently to God. I'm not speaking for other people, but it gives me a sense of peace and equanimity and assurance.

Jody Powell, Carter's press secretary, said the interview as published was accurate and said he doubted that the bluntness of Carter's language would hurt his candidacy.

In the interview, Carter said that because of his religious beliefs, "I don't think I would Don't blame your age that because of his religious ever take on the same frame for poor hearing Presidents Richard M.) Carter said he thought his Baptist beliefs had become a campaign issue because "for those who don't know the feeling of someone who believes in Christ, who is aware of the presence of God, there is, I presume, a quizzical attitude about it.

But, he said, "I'm not unique. There are a lot of people in this country who have the same religious faith. It's not a mysterious or mystical or magical thing.

State official defends prison site process

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The state's method of buying land for a Kansas City prison site was "dictated by a mandate from the state legislature to find a location for a medium security according to Jack Cooper, director of the State Division of Design and Construction. Reacting to state Auditor George Lehr's request for a grand jury investigation into the prison site selection procedures, Cooper said the Missouri Office of Administration was under pressure to select a site near Kansas City under the guidelines set down by the General Assembly.

He said that administration officials "felt we had a pretty responsible acquisition" with a site near Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base

Lehr urged a grand jury investigation of the way in which the state contracted for the prison site, saying it was "a little too cozy" between the administration of Gov. Christopher S. Bond and the real estate firm which negotiated the contract.

According to Lehr, the appraisals of the property were made after the deal to purchase the 261-acre site was negotiated, and that the fixed price was $165,000 more than the land was valued.

'There are still a lot of unanswered questions," Lehr said in a statement released by his press aide, Don Keough. "I would not deny there is a small bit of politics in my statement," Lehr was also quoted as saying. Lehr is a staunch supporter of Joe Teasdale, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, who had charged earlier that two of Bond's Republican associates would have benefited from the land deal

Plans for the 500-inmate medium security prison site were abandoned after residents in the Grandview area voiced strong opposition

Lehr said he planned to confer with Jackson County Prosecuting Atty. Ralph L. Martin about the contract to buy the land for $1.3 million.

There's nothing to indicate an investigation is called for." Martin said. "Of course, if anything is turned over to us, we'll review it to see if there is anything criminal involved that would warrant a grand jury investigation.

State law does not stipulate that the Office of Administration must first get an appraisal before it agrees to purchase land. Guidelines in the Office of Administration, however, do recommend such Horace Hedges, who along with a sister and two brothers own the remaining 80 acreas, said no payment has been received from the state and no negotiations are under way.

Butz says full production has proven boon to farmers

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz has told a Washington meeting of the National Conference of Farm Credit Directors that the Ford administration's policy of promoting full production by farmers has gone a long way toward increasing the net income of farmers to its current $22-billion level

Butz said he supports a continuation of this program in the years ahead with changes in the target-price levels and loan rates to recognize escalating costs to farmers for what they buy

Butz says the farm credit system and other lending institutions have to continue providing credit to farmers. He said that with continued help from the government, U.S. agriculture is showing the world that "profit is not a four-letter word.

Guilty pleas are entered in drug cases

PLATTSBURG, Mo. - Guilty pleas were entered in Clinton County Circuit Court here Tuesday morning in the two remaining drug-related indictments handed down by the Pettis County grand jury in December of 1974.

Steve Curry, 26, 11512 South Ohio, pleaded guilty to selling $80 worth of hashish to a federal undercover agent in Pettis County on Nov. 7, 1974. Phillip Mefford, 18, 1417 East Seventh, pleaded guilty to felony charges of selling $700 worth of MDA, a controlled substance, to a federal agent. Curry remains free on $5,000 bond and Mefford remains free on $7,500 bond pending completion of presentence investigations ordered in Circuit Court here Tuesday morning.

Pettis County Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming told The Democrat-Capital that Tuesday morning's guilty pleas by Curry and Mefford make 17 convictions out of the 19 original drugrelated indictments handed down by the Fleming said one of the other two men has never been located by law enforcement officials and the other case was dropped after agents indicated the wrong man was arrested.

Thieves take auto parts, CB equipment

Citizens band radios and accessories were again the prime targets of thieves Monday in Sedalia.

Joe Musgrave, 2202 East Ninth, reported the theft of a $125 CB radio from his car while it was parked at home between 10:30 p.m. Sunday and 9 a.m. Mon-

Musgrave reported his vehicle was locked, but police found no signs of forced entry, reports indicated.

A $159.95 CB radio was stolen from a car owned by Howard L. Martin, 1202 East Ninth, while it was parked at his home between 10:30 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. Monday. Authorities reported that thieves apparently unlocked the right door of the vehicle.

Roger G. Wiskur, Hughesville, reported the theft of a $28 CB antenna from his pickup truck while it was parked at 5081/2 West Seventh between midnight Sunday and 8 a.m. Monday. Entry was reportedly gained by forcing open the left wing window.

Keith Ollison of Ollison Used Cars, 12th and Marshall, reported the theft of a carburetor and air cleaner from a vehicle owned by J.B. Vannoy, Route 1, while it was parked in the carlot at 1:30 p.m. Monday. The carburetor and air cleaner were valued together at $80.

In other reports, thieves burglarized the offices of MFA Farm Supply Co., 303 North Park, overnight Monday and escaped with about $81 in cash.

Police reported that the office was apparently entered through a north window which was closed by the thieves as they left. A desk was then ransacked and $71 stolen from a cash box. Another $10 was taken from a vending machine

Police also reported that a stereo and a television set were stolen from the home of Emory D. Williams, 715 West Seventh, between 6 and 10:30 p.m. Monday. A door was pried open to gain entry to the house. Value for the loss was set at $370.

cent of the time when the lieutenant governor was called to vote in the Senate, he was absent. Is this full-time service? I don't think so.

Later, talking to reporters, Rabbitt outlined in more specific terms some of the programs he favors.

He stated a concern for tax reform and declared his support of Constitutional Amendment No. 2 which would remove the sales tax from food and medicine.

If elected, he would institute a legislative program independent of the governor's, Rabbitt told The Democrat-

He said the top items on his list of programs would be tax reform and industrial development. He declined to offer specifics citing the need for "innovative" ways of raising state revenues. However, he did say he would seek to review the findings of a tax study recently completed.

Asked how a lieutenant governor would encourage industrial development, Rabbitt said, "I would personally try to contact industry and cut the red tape involved in bringing new industry into Rabbitt also proposed legislative reform. He told The Democrat-Capital the legislature should be allowed "to call itself into session

He proposed that each legislative session be unlimited, to release the pressures of time. Rabbitt cited the death penalty as an example of one of the measures the legislature might take up if it were not hampered by time and could convene independent of the governor's

"I would also favor decreasing the size of the House to 120 members," Rabbitt said.

In addition to Rabbitt, local and area candidates for office presented brief

Smith reportedly says yes to majority rule

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania said today he has been told by U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger that Prime Minister Ian Smith has accepted the principle of majority rule for Rhodesia within 18 months to two years.

As a consequence, Nyerere told a news conference, he is no longer "gloomy about prospects for a Rhodesian settlement.

He said after a 90-minute meeting with Kissinger that he now awaits a public

Damage suit filed in auto accident

A Sedalia couple filed suit in Circuit Court Monday seeking to recover $900 damages from a West Virginia man in connection with an automobile accident July 31, 1975.

Darrell and Barbara Sue Hughes, 209 West 11th, claim Charles C. Hackney, Ripley, W. Va., was negligent in operating his automobile when it allegedly collided with the Hughes vehicle at 16th and Kentucky. The petition states the Hughes car sustained $900 damage in the accident.

An application for a change of judge was granted in Circuit Court Monday in connection with another automobile accident July 10, 1975.

Ronald and Diana Rogers, 702 East 18th, filed suit July 7, against Robert L. Vail, Route 2, seeking to recover a total of $30,000 damages. The suit alleges Vail was negligent in operating his car when it allegedly struck the Rogers vehicle from behind at 16th and Ohio

Mrs. Rogers is seeking $25,000 for injuries allegedly sustained in the accident, and her husband is seeking $5,000 for the loss of his wife's services.

Kissinger flew to Tanzania today to see President Julius Nyerere after reporting Monday to President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia on his talks during the weekend with Smith and Prime Minister John Vorster of South Africa.

Meanwhile, Smith met with his cabinet in Salisbury, the Rhodesian capital, to discuss Kissinger's proposals for black rule in Rhodesia. Kissinger's aides expected that Smith would recommend approval of the proposals, and observers in Salisbury said opposition : he prime minister's recommendations was unlikely. But they said he probably would run into trouble with hard-liners when he puts the proposals before other members of his Rhodesian Front in parliament on

Insurance rates threaten to double for many dealers, due to vandalism and thefts

'We had thought about it," Don Thomas, Mid-Mo Datsun, said of a fence, "but we have so many people who like to come in when nobody is around to bother them and look at cars . . . I guess it is a last resort.'

Other dealers echoed Thomas' thoughts and indicated they feel fences and gates threaten the very nature of their profession.

"I don't think its a grievance," commented Robinson of the losses experienced by car dealers. "I think it's just something to do. I think it's being done by some people with a lot of time on their hands.

None of the dealers felt the acts perpetrated against their businesses were in revenge. Those who speculated about who might be victimizing the dealerships pointed to youths.

Many of the items taken are youth oriented: sport wheels and hubcaps, tape decks and other items.

Miller tends to agree with the dealers. He rules out the possibality of an organized theft ring. The quantity is not great enough for professional thieves, Miller claims.

"Of course, " Miller notes, "if we knew who it was, we'd have them in custody.'

In addition to the land, the city received two 50-foot by 120-foot metal and brick building is located on the smaller tract, while a 150-foot by 50-foot metal structure is located on the larger one. Fritz said the acquisitions will be used for expansion of city equipment storage facilities.

Jabas said the mutual aid pact between the Sedalia fire department and the Columbia fire department will ensure 'backup'' fire protection for Sedalia by Columbia and vice versa. The pact was first suggested by Columbia Fire Chief Dean Holland.

Jabas said his department already has one mutual aid pact with the fire department at Whiteman Air Foce Base. Columbia equipment would be called in, he said, only "in extreme cases" such as "long-running fires which would maybe run from one day into the next."

Fourth Ward Democrat David Curry noted that Sedalia probably would be calling on Columbia more than Columbia would require Sedalia's help. Columbia also has mutual aid pacts with Jefferson City and Moberly and would thus be more likely to call for equipment from these closer cities, Curry said.

The council also adopted a "uniform housing code" which establishes guidelines to follow in the up-coming home improvements program to be undertaken through the Community Development Block Grant Program.

The new code is different from the existing city building code in that it is specifically written to cover remodeling projects on older dwellings. Although the new housing code was triggered by the block grant program, it is effective for the entire city, local block grant director Tom Delph said.

At the last City Council meeting, the council approved the Missouri Valley Human Resource Development Corp. to perform all home improvement and rehabilitation projects under the block grant program. The MVHRDC will work in cooperation with Delph and code enforcer Mrs. Norma Smith.

After some discusion, the council voted to return a recommendation made by the Traffic Advisory Committee back to that committee for further study. The committee proposed that cars entering the intersection of Broadway and Massachusetts not be allowed to turn right on a red light.

City Clerk Ralph Dedrick was about to read the proposal for the third and final time when Police Chief William Miller interjected, saying the new restriction would not help solve the original problem, which was Smith-Cotton High School students crossing at the dangerous intersection

Mrs. Arlene Furnell, vice president of the Mid Missouri Humane Society, invited council members to an open house from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Oct. 9 at the city animal shelter. And finally, Hawkins announced 10 appointments to various city boards and commissions.

George Ray, 421 East 15th, and M.J. Martin, 3305 South Park, were reappointed to terms expiring June 1, 1978, on the Economic Development Board. Replacing Don Weller on that board will be Paul Schroeder, 1806 West Fourth, whose term will expire at the same time. On the Sedalia Housing Authority, reappointed to serve terms expiring June 1, 1980, were E. Glenn Lewis, 118 East 10th, and Clyde Robinson, 123 West Cooper. Replacing Conley McAnally on the authority will be Ramon Otten, 907 Sylvia, whose term will expire June 1, Stanley B. Cox, 202 West Fourth, will replace William Smillie on the Human Rights Commission. His term will expire June 1, 1979.

Reappointed to serve a term expiring June 1, 1979, on the Park Board, is Lee R. Freese, 1507 South New York.

On the Planning and Zoning Commission, Michael G. Robinson, 1405 West Third, was appointed to replace Ray Hendricks. His term will expire June 1, Ray Talbott, 1308 South Kentucky, was also appointed to the Planning and Zoning Commission, replacing Mike Dickey. His term will expire June 1, 1978.

That's the status of designer sunglasses.

"I don't think they're a temporary trend at all," says Mark Ugenti, Bast Coast sales representative for Yves St. Laurent eyewear. "It's something people have realized can help then."

Designers have realized that, too. Bill Blass, Halston, Cardin, Geoffrey Beene they're among the name designers currently fashioning frames or about to in the near future. And marketing them from $35 to $50 a pair and up, which is where the help comes in.

Still, cosmetically, Ugenti says, eyeglasses can perform a multitude of services.

"If you have a long nose, you can shorten it by wearing your glasses lower down the bridge. Or, to disguise a bump on your nose, rest the glasses on or in front of it.

You want blue eyes, mauve eyes, "ebony haze?" Choose the properly tinted lenses. And, to brighten a tired complexion, try a pair of sunglasses whose gradient lenses gradually fade to a "fashion pink color at the bottom,'' he says. Just remember, these shades won't protect against the sun's rays the way dark brown, green or gray will.

Hand, machine-worked buttonholes

By MABEL S. OBENCHAIN

Hand-worked buttonholes are made on men's wear and on difficult fabrics, such as laces and sheer silks. Machine-worked buttonholes are suitable for cotton clothing such as pajamas robes, children's garments and play clothes. Bound buttonholes have always been considered the deluxe finish for fine garments except when fashion dictates otherwise. We are at the moment in time when machine-made buttonholes are appearing on quite expensive garments.

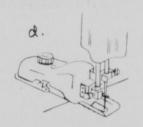

Hand-worked buttonholes (a) Mark position of buttonhole. Machine stitch onesixteenth inch on each side of the marking line and across ends forming a rectangle. Slash between the stitching lines from end to end. (b) Overcast raw edges. Starting at far end make buttonhole stitch across one side. Keep depth of stitches even. Pivot stitches in a fan shape at the point of strain. Continue along the other side, back to bar end. (c) Use blanket stitch to make bar at end to reinforce slash.

Machine-worked buttonhole

The automatic machines make buttonholes without an attachment, but for the standard machine it is necessary to use a buttonhole attachment. Polly's pointers

Reader allergic to kitchen rug

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I had some white washable draperies hanging at a large picture window in my sitting room, where I wanted to change the predominate color to blue. I remembered hearing that a liquid bluing would dye clothes blue if too much of it was used. I used one part bluing to three parts water and added this mixture to the final rinse water when washing my drapes. They came out the beautiful blue desired and I hung them while damp dry. I feel sure this will have to be repeated in two or three months but it is very inexpensive and easy to do. — BARBARA

DEAR POLLY — My Dad hangs his tools on the wall in the garage. To keep track of them, he has traced around each one. He knows if one is missing or where they are to be rehung, when anyone is finished using them. - MISS G.S.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY - I hope someone can suggest a way to remove an odor from my new rubber backed kitchen carpet. I am allergic to it. After three months, it is just about as bad as when new, even though we have three fans blowing on it night and day and plenty of ventilation. Damp weather makes it even worse. This carpet was glued down. Could it be the glue that smells?

My Pet peeve concerns the perfume that is added to soaps and many cosmetics that are ruined by its use. We can obtain perfume in scents we like and use it as desired.

- IN TROUBLE. DEAR IN TROUBLE - The carpet cleaners I spoke with had little advice to offer and said it could be backing, fibers in the carpet itself or the glue. Professional cleaners and installers have a deodorant for smoke odor and its use might cover up the odor but would not eliminate it. Have you spoken with the firm that installed your carpet? I could only suggest that you try (test in an inconspicuous spot first) spraying with that well known household spray that eliminates household odors. If anyone has solved such a problem do let us know. - POL-continues, with what at times appears to be a perverse will.

Good rains fell in Kansas City to the west and Columbia to the east Sunday. But despite threatening skies, nary a drop fell in Pettis County.

This year's crop is already shot. Even if we did get rain, about all it might do is revive some pastureland. But with the growing season drawing to a close before long, this would be of limited benefit.

Being one of the worst-hit counties in the central drought belt, Pettis has qualified for an emergency livestock feed program. A total of 50,000 bushels of oats are on order, but how far this will go is a matter of some concern. Nationwide, oat reserves are considerably lower next year

The drought in Pettis County this year, while the demand promises to be high.

> The county is also hoping to qualify for a federal hay transportation program that could be a big help. This would assist farmers to bring in hay from other areas, as well as transport livestock to better pastureland.

> Some old-timers say things are drier this year than they were during the severe droughts of the early and mid-30s. And to make matters worse, this is the third year in a row that Pettis County farmers have been hit.

It's bad news not only for individual operators, but for the economy of the entire county. We can only join our farmer friends in echoing the age-old hope that things will be better

WASHINGTON — The secret papers of James Akins, the former ambassador to Saudi Arabia, reveal that the Saudis repeatedly urged the United States to bring pressure on Iran to lower oil prices.

Yet the United States made no apparent effort to bring the shah of Iran into line. The Saudis, therefore, became convinced that the United States was secretly conspiring with the shah to keep oil prices up

Akins reported that he had an "explicit's conversation with the Saudi oil minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani about reducing oil prices. Yamani said he "knows" that Secretary of State Henry Kissinger "is speaking about lower oil prices but in secret doing everything possible to jack them up. This will enable him to unite the consumers in a front against the producers, particularly the

In a secret "memorandum for the file," the former ambassador revealed: "The Saudis had urged us on numerous occasions to put pressure on the shah to cooperate with Saudi Arabia and reduce the oil prices, yet we had refused to do

It reached the point that the Saudis no longer believed what Kissinger told them. Wrote Akins: "In one of Kissinger's last meetings with King Faisal. the king urged him directly to take (oil prices) up with the shah, and the secretary agreed to do so. The secretary saw the shah in late winter 1975 and reported back to King Faisal that he had

U.S. bows to shah, says Saudi Arabia

By JACK ANDERSON with LES WHITTEN indeed tried to persuade the shah to reduce oil prices. "The Saudis themselves have subsequently been told by the shah himself that the subject of oil was not discussed in these meetings. Although the Saudis know the Iranian propensity to lie, they were telling the truth.

The Saudis became all the more convinced that Kissinger was lying, Yamani told Akins, by the special treatment the shah received in Washington. "The shah, in his recent visit to the United States, was honored by the President and other highest ranking members of the government," Yamani noted.

believe in this case that the Iranians

Although the shah had announced 'that oil prices must go up by $3.50barrel," reported Akins, "the Iranians had told them we were completely unconcerned about any price rise. The shah has also told this to numerous oilmen as proof that the U.S. is at least indifferent to an increase in oil prices.

"In any case, the Saudis have seen no account from any American source that we in any way tried to pressure the shah to back off this extreme position on oil

Yamani wrote directly to Treasury Secretary William Simon, who has warned of the ruinous effect of high oil prices on the Western world. The letter, dated Sept. 3, 1975, and marked "strictly personal," declared:

"I would like you to know that there are those amongst us who think that the U.S. Administration does not really object to an increase in oil prices. There are even those who think that you encourage it for obvious political reasons, and that any official position taken to the contrary is merely to cover up this fact.'

Yamani strongly indicated the United States should use its influence with the shah. Otherwise, he wrote, "it can only lead to Saudi Arabia giving up its present position on crisis and joining its OPEC colleagues in their uncompromising Footnote: The Akins papers raised some grave questions which demand a full congressional investigation. Why did ex-President Richard Nixon and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger permit the shah of Iran to drive up oil prices, at a terrible cost to the U.S. economy, without any apparent protest? Why did Nixon give the shah virtually a blank check to purchase more U.S. weapons than his armed forces can handle?

Saudi Arabia has been America's staunchest friend in the Arab world. The Saudi oil reserves are also far more important to the United States than the dwindling Iranian supply. Then why did Nixon and Kissinger risk the valuable Saudi friendship to court the unreliable and unstable shah? It almost seems that Nixon and Kissinger put the shah's wishes ahead of vital U.S. interests.

Jaworski looks back on ordeal

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON - Reading Leon Jaworski's just-published book is like licking an aching tooth. It hurts, but you can't stop. In this lawyer's version of the Watergate year, it all comes painfully

Jaworski is the tough old Texas turkey who served as special prosecutor for the Watergate trials. He stepped into the office late in October, 1973, across the bloody floor of the Saturday Night Massacre; he served for 12 months in one of the most demanding and dramatic assignments ever given a lawyer. In "The Right and the Power," he tells his

Some jaded critics may be inclined to dismiss Jaworski's work as merely one more Watergate book. Of these, we have a groaning shelf full. I found his account rewarding partly because the law is my beat, but also because Jaworski shared an agonizing experience that saddened many others. He came to Washington with an illusion of Richard Nixon's innocence; and he stayed to see that illusion cruelly shattered.

Jaworski's deflowering came on a morning in December, 1973, when he listened for the first time to the famous tape of Nixon's conversation with John Dean and Robert Haldeman the preceding March 21. The experience left him badly shaken. In the privacy of his office, he could not escape a stunning conclusion: "The President of the United States had without doubt engaged in highly improper practices, in what appeared to be criminal practices."

"I had not come to Washington expecting this. I had expected to find all sorts of wrongdoing by his aides, conduct unbecoming and even criminal, but it had never occurred to me that the President was in the driver's seat... Listening to him scheme, knowing he was the President of the United States, I felt as if my heart was shriveling inside of me.'

Jaworski was compelled by the nature of his job to sit on this damning evidence. Seven months would elapse before the public would have access, not to the tapes themselves, but to reasonably accurate transcripts of the tapes. Even the most accurate transcript, he suggests, cannot adequately convey the shocking contrast between the public Nixon, projecting a polished image, and the private Nixon, profanely plotting with his aides.

"Listening and relistening to the tapes. I was amazed at the inordinate amount of time they consumed. I often wondered how Nixon was able to concentrate even briefly on the matters of state that begged for his attention. There he was in the Oval Office, day after day, night after night, scheming, plotting, and finally sacrificing his staff and others, one by one, so as to save himself. It was a sordid, frightening drama.

Jaworski's task was to coordinate the prosecution of the Watergate defendents collectively. Some of them, notably the remorseful Egil Krogh, won his sympathy; most of the others earned only his disdain. Jaworski is a lawyer's lawyer, a former president of the American Bar. What hurt especially was that so many of the defendents also were lawyers, officers of the courts, sworn to uphold the law. He had small pity for them.

Toward the end of his stay, Jaworski ran into harsh criticism on two counts that he had not moved swiftly, after Nixon's August resignation, to obtain an indictment against the former president; and that he had not challenged Gerald Ford's September pardon. His lawyer's explanation makes sense. He was convinced that Nixon could not possibly have obtained a fair trial until months or years had elapsed; and he was satisfied, after examining the precedents, that Ford's pardon was fully within the presidential

Of the writing of Watergate books, we probably will have no end. At least 20 volumes have appeared already, and memoirs are yet to come from Gen. Al Haig and of course from Nixon himself. Jaworski's book makes a significant contribution to this historian's collection. As special prosecutor, he was chiefly responsible for the criminal side of the story. He alone had "the right and the power" to put the defendents in the dock. Jaworski is fully entitled, as a prosecutor, to be proud of his work; but in the disgraceful events he enclosed, there can be no pride at all.

Washington market is glutted with leaks

WASHINGTON-Last week's House Ethics Committee hearings in which Daniel Schorr was asked to reveal the name of the person who gave him the Pike CIA Report was a big flop. The reason was that Mr. Schorr refused to tell his source and the committee, which had spent $150,000 trying to find the culpable person, was still left in the dark as to how the report got into Mr. Schorr's

A few of the committee members quesioned Mr. Schorr's patriotism and others raised constitutional issues of Congress' right to know." But that wasn't mentioned during the hearings is that trafficking in and passing on of top secret and classified information is an essential part of running the government and one that very few people in Washington would like to see abolished.

This is how the system works.

Every morning when I come to work I find a batch of top secret documents under my door. My secretary goes through them and throws most of them away, considering them "junk secrets" that I wouldn't be interested in. Then she briefs me on the ones that she believes might have some merit.

"Here's a classified document from the Pentagon saying the Soviets have developed a new laser-guided bulldozer that could destroy every mobile home in

"Isn't the Pentagon going up on the Hill tomorrow to testify on its new defense budget?" I ask her

"Yes, they are, and they've been inundating the media with top secret material on Soviet military strength Everyone in town is on their list. 'I don't know if I should use this or not

I don't want to endanger my country's "There was a covering letter with it,"

she says. "It reads, 'While this information has been classified Top Secret, we would like to remind you that the First Amendment gives you full protection to

"They must be pretty desperate to get their budget. What else do you have?"

'I have a classified report from the CIA revealing their covert operations at

'Why would they send us that?" I ask.

"It was subpoenaed by Congress last week and if we print it, the CIA can say, You see what happens when we give the House of Representatives secret information.

"They're not very subtle," I say. "The CIA is going to have to come up with a better ploy than that if they expect me to play their game.

"I didn't think you'd buy it," she said. "Oh, by the way, we just got a confidential transcript of Henry Kissinger's talks with the King of Morocco.

"I wonder who sent it to us?"

"I don't know," she replies, "but there is a note on the top which says, 'If you use any part of this transcript, I'll tap your telephone. Best to your wife. H.'

"He probably sent the same stuff to Jack Anderson. What did the White House leak to us today?

"Jimmy Carter's income tax returns and the FBI sent us over a classified file on the Socialist Worker's Party plans to disrupt the swine flu program.

"Anything else?"

"It doesn't seem like much of a day for violating national security. "I agree. Oh, there was one call from the House Ethics Committee. They wanted to know if you were interested in their top secret discussions on whether to impeach Dan Schorr or not. They've decided if they can leak them, it will get them off the hook with the rest of the Kansas City comeback bid pulls up three points short

KANSAS CITY (AP) — When Kenny Stabler is hot there is probably not a defense in the National Football League that can stop him

Before millions of television viewers Monday night the Oakland quarterback was an artist, completing 22 of 28 passes and systematically shredding the Kansas City defense for 224 yards and three touchdowns

Then Stabler left early in the fourth quarter with a strained knee and watched, no doubt flabbergasted, as the Chiefs upstaged his performance with an amazing comeback before finally succumbing, 24-21.

"Ken Stabler was as sharp as I've ever seen a quarterback be," said Chiefs Coach Paul Wiggin. 'He was the ultimate passer.'

Stabler and the unbeaten Raiders, twotouchdown favorites over the rebuilding Chiefs. humiliated their hosts in the first half, constructing a 17-0 lead that actually was deceptive in light of the halftime statistics: Sixteen first downs and 288 total yards for Oakland, two first downs and 37 yards for the Chiefs.

After Stabler fired touchdown strikes of 15, 10, and 14 yards to Dave Casper, Cliff Branch and Mike Siani and Fred Steinfort booted a 37-yard field goal it looked for all the world like a rout had been ordained.

But after intermission it was as if the teams had swapped uniforms. On the Chiefs' third possession of the third quarter, MacArthur Lane capped a 54-yard march with a one-yard touchdown plunge to make it 17-7. Stabier's touchdown toss to Siani a few minutes later gave the Raiders what would prove to be an insurmountable 24 points.

But the Chiefs, behind quarterback Mike Livingston, swept 87 yards in 12 plays and tallied on Livingston's one-yard keeper.

Less than two minutes later reserve quarterback Mike Rae fumbled at the Oakland 25 and Chiefs linebacker Billy Andrews pounced on the

Livingston needed one play, a 25-yard pass to Billy Masters in the end zone, to pull his team to within three points with less than three minutes

The Raiders handled Kansas City's onside kick and ran out the clock, but Chiefs players and coaches left the field feeling like winners.

"I'm really proud of them," Wiggin said. "We talked earlier about the Chiefs growing and I believe we did that tonight. I think we grew in the second half.

Livingston said the Chiefs made no halftime adjustments.

'We didn't use any blackboard stuff or anything like that," he said. "Guys just started talking among themselves, asking each other, 'Are we going to accept this or are we going to pull something up from deep within our souls?'

Stabler breaks loose

Oakland Raiders' quarterback Ken Stabler, who connected on 22 of his 28 Stabler (12) gets short yardage on this carry against the Kansas City Chiefs Monday night, but the play was called back on a holding penalty. Behind passes for 224 yards and three TD's, are George Buehler (64) and John Vella (75).

Three Big Eight teams in top 10

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

Top-ranked Michigan, which led runner-up Ohio State by just one point a week ago, widened the margin in today's Associated Press college football ratings following a 51-0 slaughter of Stanford.

With numerous voters switching from Ohio State to Michigan, the Wolverines received 47 first-place ballots and 1,156 of a possible 1,200 points from a nationwide panel of 60 sports writers and broadcasters.

Meanwhile, Ohio State received three No. 1 votes and 998 points for second place after a 12-7 triumph over Penn State, which dropped from seventh to 11th.

Last week, Michigan received 28 first-place votes and 1,077 points to 18 and 1,076 for Ohio State.

Pitt, Oklahoma and UCLA held onto the 3-4-5 positions. Pitt received seven first-place votes and 947 points after trouncing Georgia Tech 42-14. Oklahoma got the other three top votes and 820 points for beating California 28-17 and UCLA polled 761 points in the wake of a 37-9 whipping of Arizona.

Nebraska, No. 1 in the Kuhn preseason ratings but eighth last week after an opening tie with Louisiana State, climbed to sixth after beating Indiana, 45-13. The Cornhuskers replaced Missouri, which cracked the rankings by walloping Southern Cal in its opener but promptly dropped out by losing 31-7 to Illinois last weekend. That game also pushed the Illini into the rankings for the first time this season. They

Georgia jumped from ninth to seventh — replacing Penn State — with a 41-0 rout of Clemson, Maryland rose from 10th to eighth by trimming West Virginia 24-3, Texas A&M shot from 11th to ninth by drubbing Kansas State 34-14 and Kansas made it from 13th to 10th with a 37-16 victory over Kentucky. Following Penn State in the Second Ten are Arkansas, Alabama, Illinois, Louisiana State, North Carolina, Mississippi, Boston College, Southern Cal and Texas Tech.

Last week's Second Ten consisted of Texas A&M, Arkansas, Kansas, Alabama, Boston College, LSU, North Carolina,

WASHINGTON (AP) -Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has spent a lot of time on Capitol Hill in recent weeks on behalf of the sport's special exclusion from the nation's antitrust laws.

Kuhn has paid special attention to the 13 members of the Select House Committee on Professional Sports who have been holding hearings on the law's effect on sports, especially the antimonopoly statutes.

Rep. John W. Wydler, R-N.Y., told a Justice Department official during a hearing last Thursday that Kuhn had met with him recently about the baseball situation and "he asked my advice on what he might say to the committee.

The Fighting Irish have the reputation of being "pushovers" in their football program. "I wouldn't say so," says Bob Fletcher, coach of the Tigers. "They beat a team last week (Savannah, 21-8) and our scouting report says they're about the same as Helias size-wise and they'll be about as tough as Helias," he

Last year, the Tigers made Lafayette their patsy and routed the Irish 34-6. "They made the statement they were gonna come out and get us this year," Coach Fletcher said. 'We need a win too, so we'll be

In that win over Savannah, St. Joseph used a five-man front on defense and stunted their linebackers. "Their offense didn't do anything outstanding-they ran off tackle mostly and used the option play," said Fletcher.

This week in practice, the Cotton Tigers face the Tigers are going to work on their defense mostly trying to cook something up to work against that option that the Fighting Irish will most likely throw at them.

After Friday's loss to Helias, Fletcher said the boys were disappointed they didn't win, but that they were pleased with their effort.

The Tigers basically outplayed Helias last Friday, but came up short in the score only, but that's what counts more than statistics.

Smith-Cotton piled up one more yard rushing (257) than Jefferson City and 44 more yards passing than the Crusaders. The Helias quarterback failed to complete a pass in five attempts.

Maybe, with a bit more defensive effort against St. Joseph Friday night, the Tigers can get in the win col-

Whoa there pardner!

Stop balancing your tires the costly, conventional way. A NEW CONCEPT IN TIRE BALANCING

> IS HERE. TIRE JOY tire balancing Tirbaleze Fluid

for ... Tube or Tubeless Cars - Trucks - Motorcycles

Here are the benefits . . .

• Permanent balancing with one application.

• Tested in laboratory and under all types of driving conditions. • Gives greater tire mileage.

Reduces mechanical wear.

· Low initial cost.

• Unaffected by temperature change.

Doesn't affect rubber in tires or tubes.

More effective than lead weights.

 No down time. No balancing equipment needed.

No need to remove tires.

How TIRE JOY works ...

When an out-of-balance condition exists on a rolling tire, the axle center moves toward the out-of-balance condition. This movement results in vibrations throughout the vehicle. This movement creates a light side on the tire. Because TIRE JOY (Tirbaleze Fluid) employs the principle of centrifugal force, it automatically seeks this ligh side of the tire. In placing itself in the light side position, TIRE JOY counter-balances the original out-of-balance position

If you want to play all fournotrump bids as Blackwood you are using the bid in its simplest form. You are also using it in a way that no expert, including Easley Blackwood himself, uses it to-

Every expert partnership uses its own special variations. We are going to suggest that you employ the following, simple variation which is: Any jump to four notrump directly in response to partner's bid of one or two

Ann Landers

Ethnic custom could be gauche

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of mine is getting married soon. She was born in Eastern Europe but came to this country when she was three years old. Nothing about her is European except her parents - and their ideas. Three hundred guests have been invited to the wedding. I received my invitation in the mail yesterday. There was a separate card in the envelope which read, "We are having a money dance. Come prepared. Bring pins along with your folding money."

I had never heard of a money dance and was intrigued with the bit about the pins. I asked the bride what it was all about. She told me it's a custom in the country of her birth for the guests to pin money on the bride's veil. She added, "I've seen some brides make as much as $500 in an evening.

I am flabbergasted. How do you feel about turning a wedding into a fundraiser? -

Think I'll Develop A Migraine Dear Migraine: If it's an ethnic custom, the family does not consider it gauche, but I can see why some of their friends from different backgrounds might. Don't develop a migraine. Go and have a good time. But leave your pins and folding money at home.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 22-year-old virgin and a bit of a phony. Ever since age 15, I've been posing as a paragon of virtue, saying "No, no, no," first to the teenage boys and now to the men. They all had me pegged as a highlyprincipled, moralistic lady but the truth is I'm terrified of having sex. I've been aware of this fear for a long time but it wasn't a problem to me until

Three months ago I met "Mr. Perfect." We've indulged in some light petting but I'm sure our love will grow deeper and stronger and he's going to want more. (So will (.) Although "Mr. P." isn't in a position to get married for at least a year, we've discussed it. He's the man I want for my life-time partner. Now I need to know how to overcome this sick fear of sexual intercourse. - All Together But Only Physically

Dear All: Some early traumatic experience (now forgotten) has left its mark on you. It must be dredged up, hashed out and disposed of.

This is no "Do-It-Yourself" project, dear. You need counseling. If you can't afford a private therapist, look in the phone book for your county or state Mental Health Association. And please, let me know how you make out - I mean give me a progress report. (Boy, how the language has changed since I started to write this column!)

Dear Ann Landers: My wife left me three weeks ago. Rosie and I had some problems that could have been talked out but her older sister who lives in Colorado sent her an airplane ticket and she left me.

I've written Rosie at least five letters asking her to come home. When I called her longdistance last night she said she had received only one letter. I was lucky she picked up the phone. Usually her sister answers and hangs up on me. What should I do, Ann? - I'm Heartsick And Lonesome

Dear H and L: If you want your wife back, don't write and don't phone. GO get her.

People as pets

By ERMA BOMBECK

My name is Murray Bombeck and I'm a guest columnist.

I'm a 312 month old Yorkshire Terrier. There are a lot of dogs who are wondering whether they want to own a person. They like people. They're fun to be around, but are they worth all the fuss and bother.

I felt the same way when a few months ago I observed this couple. Their dog (another Yorkshire) had just been killed and frankly, they were a psychological mess. During the interview, they kept calling me "Harry" (the deceased dog's name) and the woman kept swooping me off the floor and crying in my fur. They would take a lot of train-

First nights are generally a disaster. At 11 o'clock at night just when things are beginning to cook, they turn off the lights and go to bed. (I had been warned by other person owners that this would happen.) I tried to keep them on their feet all night but things like this happen. Old habits are hard to break.

Another thing you have to know about people is that you have to keep them busy or they drive you crazy. Every time I ate a houseplant, they were there. When I chewed on shoes, they were there. They were smothering me. Once when I went into the white living room to go to the bathroom, she came in, swooped me up, ran around hysterically finding a key to the back door, opened it up and heaved me out onto the Soviet ag official explains irrigation

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A Soviet agriculture official says his country is irrigating an additional 2.5 million acres of agricultural land each year in an effort to put 25 per cent of the nation's grain and cotton growing land under irrigation.

Ivan Gavva, deputy administer of agriculture to the United States, said Russia is now trying to manufacture more tractors and farm implements and produce more fertilizer as part of a major effort to improve the standard of living through increased food production.

Gavva was one of the panelists Monday at the 4th annual Institutional Investors Agribusiness Conference.

Dr. Mikhail Zakhmatov, economic affairs counselor for the Russian Embassy in Washington, said developed countries might be able to reduce military appropriations and use those funds to develop agricultural resources in developing Zakhmatov also said suggestions that sales of grain to Russia increased prices here were false and unfair.

The hardest part of training a person, however, is discipline. You have to be firm with people or they'll run all over you. When they want to play by grabbing your nose, at first you just walk off, but when they pursue it, you just sink your teeth into their hands. They may look shocked and hurt at first, but you'll eventually have a person you don't have to be ashamed to great pets

Everything you've heard about people is true. They're messy. They're temperamental and they're hard to train.

Emphysema can deplete energy

Dear Dr. Lamb - Would you write a list of foods that are good for my health? Some days I go through hell. I feel like all the energy is drained out of me. I have emphysema. What vitamins should I take?

Dear Reader - I wish your problem were that simple but it is not. Your loss of energy may be related to your emphysema. When the lungs do function well for any reason and there is not enough oxygen provided to the body it will cause fatigue. The food you eat contains energy, originating at some point from the sun. The energy literally glues the atoms together that made the food. The cycle starts with the plants. They trap carbon dioxide and water and combine them into carbohydrate, using solar energy to do the trick. In the process they release oxvgen. Animals, including two legged ones, use oxygen to reverse the process, releasing carbon dioxide and water and the energy originally used to form the carbohydrate. Proteins and fats are just further modifications of the original carbohydrate in nature's scheme of manufacturing

When you cannot provide enough oxygen to the cells you can't do this and that means you can't release enough energy from food regardless of what or how much you eat. The same principle applies to anemia and heart disease. Any condition that interferes with the healthy process of providing oxygen to the cells interferes with the release of energy and can cause fatigue Carbohydrates and many proteins require less oxygen to metabolize them. For that reason I would think a diet that is low in fat, but includes sufficient carbohydrates plus good quality protein, would be your best choice.

I'd like to point out, however, that any more than your daily normal vitamin intake that you should get from a balanced diet, or from a simple all purpose daily vitamin tablet, will not increase your energy. The energy is in the foods you eat, not in the vitamins. The vitamins are part of enzymes that are used to metabolize your foods, but they can be used over and over again in the process. All the vitamins in the world will not increase the release of energy if you do not have enough oxygen or if a person does not have enough food food calories to begin with. If that were not true we could all just take vitamin tablets and forget about eating entirely.

Dear Dr. Lamb - Would you please recommend what can be used on bran cereals instead of milk to make them palatable'

Dear Reader - If you can't tolerate milk you may like one of the milk substitutes that are found with the infant foods in most supermarkets. Look at
